Card for True And False Station. Punch BOTTOM of each card with a standard 2 hole punch. Use scissors to clip out a wedge to leave an opening on the left side if the correct answer is TRUE or the right side if the correct answer if FALSE.

Make a wooden card holder per instructions. Use a golf tee or other peg for the answer marker. If the child answers correctly by placing the peg in the hole where the cut out is located, the card will slide out and he can read the next card. If he answers incorrectly, the card will not come out.

Card for True And False Station. Punch BOTTOM of each card with a standard 2 hole punch. Use scissors to clip out a wedge to leave an opening on the left side if the correct answer is TRUE or the right side if the correct answer if FALSE.

Make a wooden card holder per instructions. Use a golf tee or other peg for the answer marker. If the child answers correctly by placing the peg in the hole where the cut out is located, the card will slide out and he can read the next card. If he answers incorrectly, the card will not come out.

Card for True And False Station. Punch BOTTOM of each card with a standard 2 hole punch. Use scissors to clip out a wedge to leave an opening on the left side if the correct answer is TRUE or the right side if the correct answer if FALSE.

Make a wooden card holder per instructions. Use a golf tee or other peg for the answer marker. If the child answers correctly by placing the peg in the hole where the cut out is located, the card will slide out and he can read the next card. If he answers incorrectly, the card will not come out.

Card for True And False Station. Punch BOTTOM of each card with a standard 2 hole punch. Use scissors to clip out a wedge to leave an opening on the left side if the correct answer is TRUE or the right side if the correct answer if FALSE.

Make a wooden card holder per instructions. Use a golf tee or other peg for the answer marker. If the child answers correctly by placing the peg in the hole where the cut out is located, the card will slide out and he can read the next card. If he answers incorrectly, the card will not come out.

Card for True And False Station. Punch BOTTOM of each card with a standard 2 hole punch. Use scissors to clip out a wedge to leave an opening on the left side if the correct answer is TRUE or the right side if the correct answer if FALSE.

Make a wooden card holder per instructions. Use a golf tee or other peg for the answer marker. If the child answers correctly by placing the peg in the hole where the cut out is located, the card will slide out and he can read the next card. If he answers incorrectly, the card will not come out.

Card for True And False Station. Punch BOTTOM of each card with a standard 2 hole punch. Use scissors to clip out a wedge to leave an opening on the left side if the correct answer is TRUE or the right side if the correct answer if FALSE.

Make a wooden card holder per instructions. Use a golf tee or other peg for the answer marker. If the child answers correctly by placing the peg in the hole where the cut out is located, the card will slide out and he can read the next card. If he answers incorrectly, the card will not come out.

Card for True And False Station. Punch BOTTOM of each card with a standard 2 hole punch. Use scissors to clip out a wedge to leave an opening on the left side if the correct answer is TRUE or the right side if the correct answer if FALSE.

Make a wooden card holder per instructions. Use a golf tee or other peg for the answer marker. If the child answers correctly by placing the peg in the hole where the cut out is located, the card will slide out and he can read the next card. If he answers incorrectly, the card will not come out.

Card for True And False Station. Punch BOTTOM of each card with a standard 2 hole punch. Use scissors to clip out a wedge to leave an opening on the left side if the correct answer is TRUE or the right side if the correct answer if FALSE.

Make a wooden card holder per instructions. Use a golf tee or other peg for the answer marker. If the child answers correctly by placing the peg in the hole where the cut out is located, the card will slide out and he can read the next card. If he answers incorrectly, the card will not come out.

Card for True And False Station. Punch BOTTOM of each card with a standard 2 hole punch. Use scissors to clip out a wedge to leave an opening on the left side if the correct answer is TRUE or the right side if the correct answer if FALSE.

Make a wooden card holder per instructions. Use a golf tee or other peg for the answer marker. If the child answers correctly by placing the peg in the hole where the cut out is located, the card will slide out and he can read the next card. If he answers incorrectly, the card will not come out.

Card for True And False Station. Punch BOTTOM of each card with a standard 2 hole punch. Use scissors to clip out a wedge to leave an opening on the left side if the correct answer is TRUE or the right side if the correct answer if FALSE.

Make a wooden card holder per instructions. Use a golf tee or other peg for the answer marker. If the child answers correctly by placing the peg in the hole where the cut out is located, the card will slide out and he can read the next card. If he answers incorrectly, the card will not come out.

Card for True And False Station. Punch BOTTOM of each card with a standard 2 hole punch. Use scissors to clip out a wedge to leave an opening on the left side if the correct answer is TRUE or the right side if the correct answer if FALSE.

Make a wooden card holder per instructions. Use a golf tee or other peg for the answer marker. If the child answers correctly by placing the peg in the hole where the cut out is located, the card will slide out and he can read the next card. If he answers incorrectly, the card will not come out.

Card for True And False Station. Punch BOTTOM of each card with a standard 2 hole punch. Use scissors to clip out a wedge to leave an opening on the left side if the correct answer is TRUE or the right side if the correct answer if FALSE.

Make a wooden card holder per instructions. Use a golf tee or other peg for the answer marker. If the child answers correctly by placing the peg in the hole where the cut out is located, the card will slide out and he can read the next card. If he answers incorrectly, the card will not come out.

Card for True And False Station. Punch BOTTOM of each card with a standard 2 hole punch. Use scissors to clip out a wedge to leave an opening on the left side if the correct answer is TRUE or the right side if the correct answer if FALSE.

Make a wooden card holder per instructions. Use a golf tee or other peg for the answer marker. If the child answers correctly by placing the peg in the hole where the cut out is located, the card will slide out and he can read the next card. If he answers incorrectly, the card will not come out.
